- (1) Where the subject of a usufruct consists of shares, membership interests or other equity interests in a legal entity, any distributions, reductions of capital, redemptions, buybacks, reorganizations, mergers, amalgamations, or other corporate actions affecting such interests shall, unless otherwise stipulated in the constitutive instrument, result in the automatic subrogation of the usufruct into the consideration, proceeds, assets or rights received by the owner in connection with such corporate action.

- (2) The owner and the usufructuary may expressly agree in the constitutive instrument that the usufruct shall attach to, or be subrogated into, any property, rights or economic benefits that replace, succeed or otherwise derive from the original subject of the usufruct.
- (3) For the purposes of this section, “consideration” includes cash distributions, stock dividends, bonus issues, redemption proceeds, interests in successor entities, or any other rights or assets received as a consequence of the corporate action.
- (4) A corporate action shall not, by itself, terminate the usufruct, and the usufructuary shall retain the same economic position, mutatis mutandis, in respect of the proceeds or replacement property arising therefrom.

29. Inalienability of the usufruct and assignment of the exercise.

- (1) A usufruct may not be transferred or conveyed by way of alienation, and any attempted alienation shall not bind the owner and shall constitute grounds for termination under section 17(2)(f).
- (2) Notwithstanding subsection (1), the usufructuary may assign the exercise of the usufruct including the rights of use, enjoyment, administration and collection of income whether for value or free of charge, provided that such assignment does not alter the duration, nature or legal characteristics of the usufruct.
- (3) Any assignment of the exercise of the usufruct shall not relieve the usufructuary of the duties imposed under this Act, unless expressly authorised by the owner.
- (4) The assignment of the exercise of the usufruct shall not constitute an alienation for the purposes of section 17(2)(f).

30. Choice and conflict of law.

- (1) In the event of a conflict of laws, the owner of the usufructuary may choose the applicable law unless contrary to the laws or public policy of The Bahamas.
- (2) Notwithstanding any choice of applicable law, matters relating to the creation, registration, priority, and third-party effects of a usufruct over property situated in The Bahamas shall be governed by the laws of The Bahamas.

31. Mechanism for relief of disputes over voting rights.

- (1) Any party aggrieved by a decision concerning the creation, exercise, limitation, or termination of a usufruct, shall have the right to appeal such decision to the Supreme Court.

- (2) The Supreme Court shall review questions of law and fact, and may affirm, modify, or reverse the decision under appeal, or remand the matter for further proceedings.
- (3) Unless otherwise ordered, the filing of an appeal shall not suspend the usufructuary's rights or the owner's obligations pending final determination, except where immediate enforcement would cause irreparable harm.
- (4) Decisions rendered on appeal shall be binding upon the parties, subject only to further recourse permitted under applicable law.

32. Act does not derogate from protection of interests under other law.

Nothing in this Act shall derogate from or override the protection of any interest under any other law.

33. Regulations.

The Minister may make regulations to provide for the overall objectives of the Act.

34. Transitional.

Subject to section 3(1), a usufruct created under foreign law prior to the commencement of this Act may be registered in The Bahamas within twelve months of the creation thereof, to gain enforceability under Bahamian law.
